

Infosys Test Data Management Solution (iTDMs)

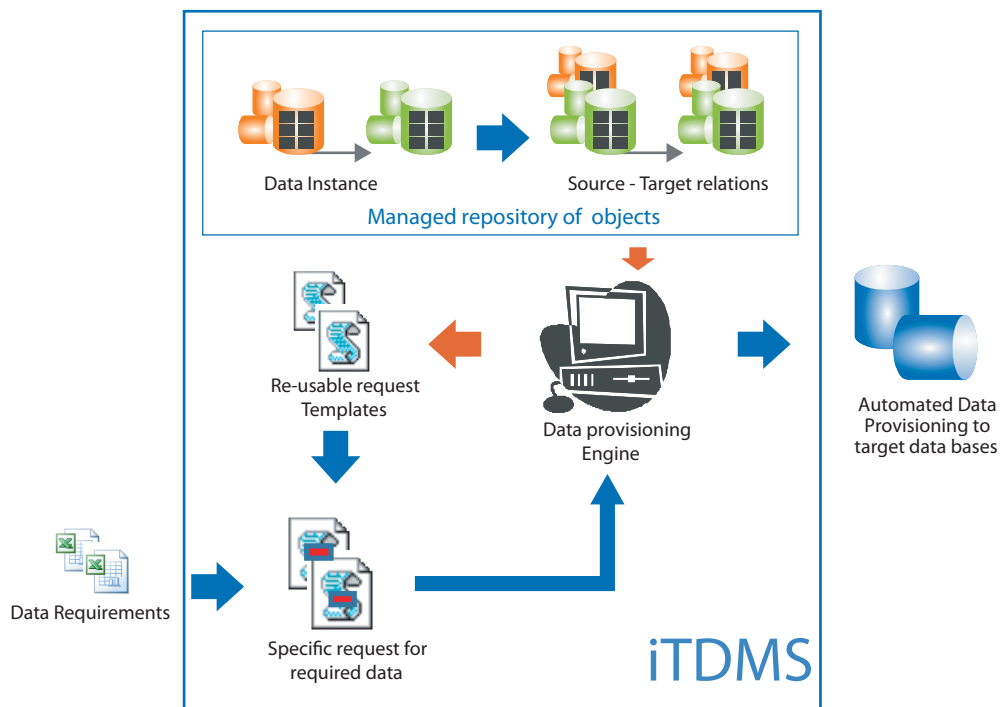

If the above mentioned questions sound familiar, then you are experiencing the same challenges that most QA teams face in managing appropriate test data in non-production environments.

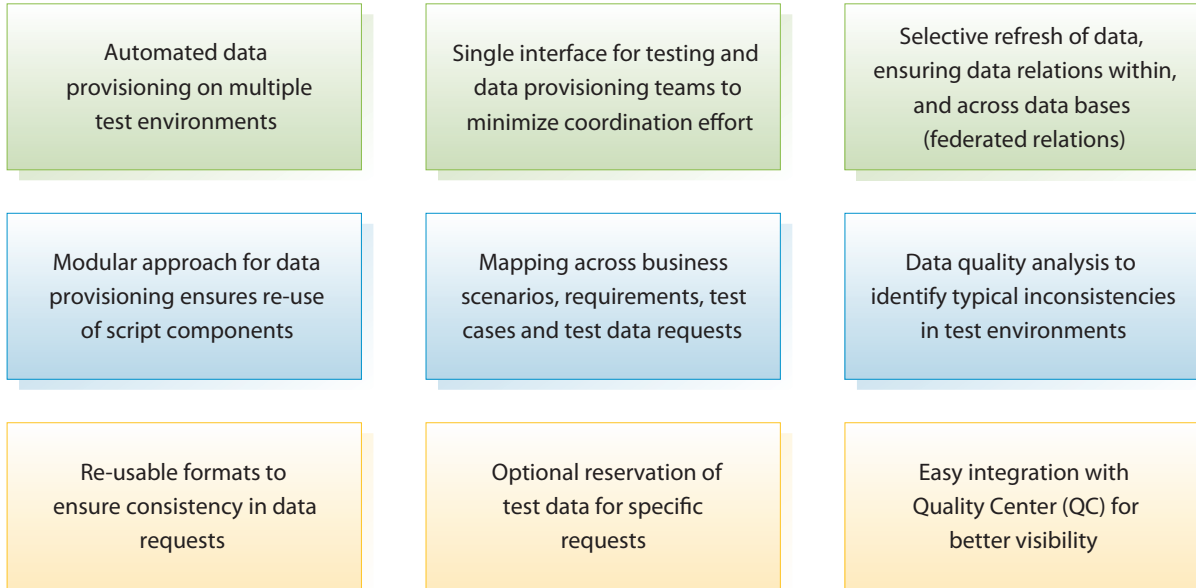

While several off-the-shelf products assist in the test data setup process, most do not support the management of test data processes. Standard processes and tools available to support the ongoing management of test data are few, and they too have extremely limited capabilities.

Infosys Test Data Management Solution (iTDMs)

Infosys' Test Data Management Solution (iTDMs) is an automated request based test data provisioning system. The solution has a well defined workflow which helps address the issues in ongoing administration of test data to the project teams. It follows a modular approach which maximizes re-use and provides end-to-end visibility of test data management activities.

Solution Features

Business Benefits

- 40% reduction in overall test data management efforts
- Eliminates additional effort required for selective data refresh
- Improves test coverage through better test data traceability
- Addresses complex data requirements by effective management of federated data relations
- Reduces overall manual errors through automated data provisioning
