

Enterprise Mobility Solutions for Oracle Applications

Mobility has become a key enterprise driver for increasing productivity and responsiveness of the on-the-move workforce and serving the customers. Given today's dynamic business environment, proliferation of tablets and smart handheld devices, advancements in wireless technology and its significant business value-add, mobility has become inevitable for enterprises.

Infosys' enterprise mobility solutions offer enterprises the right platforms for their mobile technology. These empower on-the-go workforce and customers by extending the access of core ERP and CRM applications' functions by leveraging the existing installations of Oracle and other products and technologies. This helps enterprises by lowering their total cost of ownership (TCO) and increasing the return on investment (ROI).

Mobility Strategy Challenges for Enterprises

Enterprise mobility is a complex paradigm with multiple dimensions and it requires enterprises to address a variety of challenges. A thorough enterprise mobility strategy is required to address these with due consideration to the financial aspects.

Infosys Enterprise Mobility Solutions

Infosys, a global enterprise mobility leader, helps enterprises drive their mobility investments with a future-proof strategy and roadmap aligned to their business goals. Infosys specializes in the translation of this roadmap into transformational mobile apps with the underlying infrastructure, and continued support/enhancement.

Infosys offers comprehensive and innovative enterprise mobility solutions for a better future. The solutions provide multiple channels and platform support, and a common model for desktop and mobile enterprise app development; thus lowering the TCO.

The solutions, based on Oracle Application Development Framework (ADF), once built, can be deployed on multiple device platforms adopting a hybrid architecture that brings together HTML5, Java, PhoneGap / cordova and device native container.
