INFOSYS AUSTRALIA ACHIEVES IBM'S TOP PARTNER STATUS

Infosys Australia today announced it has been awarded IBM's 'Premier' Partner status, the highest level of accreditation available to IBM Business Partners.

Infosys is one of a handful of companies in Australia to receive the 'Premier' level, which rewards Business Partners who make significant investments in IBM, with the greatest degree of strategic marketing and technical support.

Ivan Gomez, General Manager - Strategic Alliances, said the company had reached a number of key milestones to meet IBM's criteria for the 'Premier' accreditation.

"Infosys has invested heavily in IBM's products and technologies through our people and solutions," Mr Gomez said. "We are continually adding to our numbers of IBM accredited technical and sales staff as well as extending our healthy track record of successful IBM implementations."

"The 'Premier' Partner status recognises our commitment to IBM in Australia and proven expertise working with IBM software," he added.

IBM Regional Manager, Channels, A/NZ Software, Duncan Hewett, said IBM is committed to helping Business Partners improve their profitability and market share delivered through IBM's PartnerWorld.

Our Premier Business Partners enjoy the highest level of membership together with a unique set of benefits that provide top level marketing, sales and technical support, as well as an additional focus on joint sales and marketing plans," said Mr Hewett.

In the IBM PartnerWorld, 'Premier' level is achieved by accumulating points earned through business activities that maximise sales and profitability. These activities can include building skills, developing solutions, driving revenue, and maintaining high levels of customer satisfaction.

Mr Gomez said Infosys Australia's clients would enjoy the full range of benefits associated with the 'Premier' Partner status. "Among other things our customers will receive the highest level of technical support, which is only available to 'Premier' Partners."
