

Gender Pay Gap Report 2017

Infosys Consulting - UK Branch

Introduction

At Infosys, we recognize the need for greater Diversity and Inclusion at the workplace, and on this journey, we place special emphasis on enabling gender diversity. Women form an integral part of our company and we do all that we can to build an inclusive, supportive and safe workplace for them.

We value our women, who form over 36% of our global workforce. As we include more gender balance in our workforce we expect our pay gap to reduce. This includes our competitive pay structure.

Our comprehensive Diversity and Inclusion strategy, with its strong focus on gender, is powered by a supportive leadership and is making strides at the workplace. We will keep marching on, to strengthen our strategy and drive positive outcomes.

Understanding the gap

Our pay gap is caused, like many other companies in our industry, by having fewer women in senior roles and in job functions like Sales.

As a company we now have just over 36% women in the workforce. We are moving in the right direction but we know we still have a way to go and continue to make significant efforts to reduce this gender imbalance.

Our aim going forward is to achieve a year on year improvement in our gender pay gap. We hope that as we strive to achieve greater gender balance across the company and in the senior roles, the result will be that our gender pay gap will reduce.

We therefore focus on the overall well-being of our employees, providing them with a fulfilling, lifelong career. Amongst other initiatives, education and flexible work models are successful and well received examples of our strong commitment to build a balanced workforce.

Our diverse approach to addressing individual needs helps us to achieve conclusive results for the organization, while helping the individual maintain a balance between work and life. We support our employees with programs such as parental leave, part-time and flexi-hours.
