

Infosys Technologies Wins Eastman Chemical's Supplier Excellence Award

Infosys' Success Recognized for the Second Consecutive Year

Bangalore, India - May 7, 2008: Infosys Technologies Ltd. (NASDAQ: INFY) today announced that it has won Eastman Chemical Company's Supplier Excellence Award for the second year running.

As a recognized supplier of global IT services, Infosys has earned the status of a valued supplier of Eastman. This designation signifies Infosys' consistent performance in providing Eastman with high-quality, value-added services, and working on Eastman's behalf to improve efficiency and competitiveness in an ever-changing and challenging global marketplace.

"Presenting Infosys with the distinguished Eastman Supplier Excellence Award for the second year reflects their consistent performance as a valued supplier," said Keith Sturgill, vice president and chief information officer, Eastman Chemical Company. "Infosys' award recognizes the breadth of IT services and capabilities they provide us as well as their significant contribution to customer satisfaction and overall collaboration."

Sanjay Jalona, vice president, High-tech and Manufacturing, Infosys Technologies, said, "We are honored to have received this prestigious award again and to continue our strong relationship with Eastman Chemical. Our partnership with Eastman further demonstrates our commitment to client success and our ability to develop client relationship by acting as a strategic partner to clients in the chemical industries."
