

AMERICAN EXPRESS, TIBCO SOFTWARE, INFOSYS AND WESTBRIDGE CREATE NEW COMPANY, WORKADIA, L.L.C.

Workadia Will Provide Hosted Portals Designed to Give Employees Access to a Comprehensive Range of Integrated Business Software Applications, Online Services and Content

San Francisco -- June 5, 2001 -- American Express Company (NYSE: AXP), TIBCO Software Inc. (NASDAQ: TIBX), Infosys Technologies Ltd. (NASDAQ: INFY) and WestBridge Capital Partners today announced the creation of a new company, Workadia L.L.C. Workadia will provide companies with comprehensive, customizable business intranets through browser accessed hosted portals. The company will also offer consulting services to help customers select and deploy their intranet applications, content and services

Workadia's solutions are designed to increase productivity by giving employees the ability to conduct business online, and its hosted model is designed to decrease the total cost of ownership and deployment of intranet applications. The portals will let companies select hosted and in-house software applications, content and services and then integrate them into a single desktop view. Workadia will integrate systems and automate business processes, allowing real-time information to flow between the portal and internal enterprise systems. Additionally, Workadia will offer a wide range of software applications, online services, content and information, including: financial services, e-mail, expense reporting, corporate travel, news, stock quotes and more.
