

Fair Isaac and Infosys Technologies Accelerate Global Delivery of Decision Management Solutions

Fremont, California, & Minneapolis, Minnesota - November 06, 2008: In response to escalating demand for critical decision management tools and applications, Fair Isaac (NYSE: FIC), a leading provider of analytics and decision management technology, is teaming with Infosys Technologies Ltd, (NASDAQ: INFY) a world leader in consulting and information technology services, to leverage its global delivery methodology and integration network.

Heightened competitive pressures are driving leading companies to seek even more rapid deployment of the best decision management tools and applications so they can analyze, understand and act upon rapidly changing business dynamics. At the same time, global economic conditions require cost-effectiveness in these implementations.

“For a growing number of businesses today, the difference between survival and extinction comes down to effective decision management,” said Dick Stewart, vice president of professional services at Fair Isaac. “Working with Infosys, we can help more businesses survive and win in this environment. We can also maintain our unwavering focus on innovation, which is fundamental to helping our joint clients anticipate and address the next wave of challenges they will face.”

Since the start of 2008, Fair Isaac and Infosys have collaborated successfully on significant solution development and implementation projects for international clients. The Infosys Product Competency Center is part of the reason, providing clients of both companies with customized solutions that can be integrated seamlessly into their existing architectures and minimizing costs and time to implement.

“The global economic crisis is causing a ‘flight to quality’,” said Ashok Vemuri, Senior VP and Global Head, Banking and Capital Markets group at Infosys. “Businesses now want only the best, and they want it implemented as quickly and reliably as possible. The global partnership between Infosys and Fair Isaac gives our customers that advantage.”
