VULNERABILITY MANAGEMENT

As enterprises ride and maneuver the technology wave with increasing number of digital products and platforms, they need to have a comprehensive vulnerability management program to protect their assets from known and unknown threats. This has led to the rise of a host of organizational challenges in ensuring quick identification and patching of vulnerabilities.

Client Challenges

Expanding and evolving threat surface from large number of unmanaged vulnerabilities arising out of rapid digital and technology innovation

Lack of visibility into vulnerabilities - Unified and centralized view of vulnerabilities across threat surfaces

Staying updated - Lack of effective patch management

Nurturing security first culture - Inability to define security requirements at the early stage of cybersecurity implementation programs

Infosys Offerings

"We enable our clients to strengthen their security posture by identifying, prioritizing, tracking and eliminating security weaknesses across threat surfaces"
